

Dear Parents/Carers,

The Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) is the national curriculum that shapes our practice, education and care. As part of the requirements we provide each child and family with a key worker. The purpose of a key worker is to build a mutual relationship in which we can work together to enhance your child's experiences with us. By working together and sharing information we can provide learning opportunities that develop your child's interests and help them to learn, enjoy and achieve. Each term your key worker will work with you to plan and create opportunities to develop their interests and learning. We thoroughly believe that the key worker system is a partnership, therefore we feel it is important you know about your key worker as well.

Your key worker is Layla

I have 20 years' experience of working in the early years. I am now entering my third year of being the manager of abacus at baileys. I love being outside and have been really lucky to be able to set up forest school with the abacus sites. I have three of my own children and I am a busy working mum. I look forward to getting to know your child.

Yours sincerely

Layla
